LLOYD GEORGE
SAILS FOR U.S.
SEPTEMBER 29

Former British Premier of War to Study America—Will Have No Lecture Tour in This Country

CRISIS MAY COMPEL CANCELLATION OF TRIP

LONDON, Sept. 12.—With a great past behind him and convinced that there is a great future before him, David Lloyd George, England's war premier, hopes to sail for America Sept. 29. He wants to complete his education. He wants to see that America concerning which he has read so much.

"America" to Lloyd George means both the United States and Canada. He has never forgotten the Canadian soldiers who fought the American doughboys. And he wants to see the two continents in which those fighting men were brought up. He is one of the outstanding British statesmen who believe the future of the world largely depends upon what the United States and British Empire do.

Despite his undoubted long-standing desire to make this trip, the whole thing is contingent upon circumstances. If relations between England and France have become even more critical than they are now, or if it looks as if there would be a political crisis in Parliament, L. G. will cancel his engagement and stay right on the job.

But if the political and international barometer is set "fair" he will go to America. Parliament meets Nov. 12 and he will leave to arrange his trip accordingly.

"L. G." is not coming over on a lecture tour. He will deliver no talks for money. So far as possible he will not at all. He wants to see and hear. But he will probably not be able to see our of the Canadian far west. He will land in New York and go directly to Montreal, where he will make his first speech. It will be a formal recognition of the splendid part Canada played in the war.

Other Canadian cities to be visited will be Ottawa, Toronto and Winnipeg. It is expected he will address the World's Brotherhood Congress in Toronto.

American cities on his list will probably be Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago, Springfield, Ill., Indianapolis, Pittsburg, Washington, Richmond, Philadelphia, Scranton and New York. Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland and Kansas City may be added.

Two big set speeches probably would affairs will be made by him in Chicago and New York. Springfield, associated with the name of Lincoln, will be the scene of a speech on that immortal. It may motor from Springfield to Indianapolis in order to see a typical American farming region of our middle west.

Richmond is chosen because it was capital of our Confederacy and is the only typical Southern city within reach. In Washington he will visit President Coolidge and former President Wilson.

He wants to see Pittsburgh because the steel metropolis was so important a factor in making munitions for Britain during the war and Scranton because it has probably the largest Welsh population in America.

He will be accompanied by Dame Lloyd George, his wife and Miss McLean, his youngest child who is a great pal of her father's.

SHOOT ROSE HILL
WELL YESTERDAY

Many Witness Nitro-Glycerine Explosion But Results on Oil Is Not Yet Known

Results of the shooting of the Rose Hill oil well were not known this morning. J. H. Walker returned to the well this morning and will have it cleaned out so that the oil may be pumped out. The heavy charge of nitro-glycerine was discharged at the bottom of the well early yesterday afternoon. A dull fluid followed the explosion and the water and oil were thrown about 20 feet above the opening of the well.

The occasion created some excitement in the vicinity and a large crowd, among which were many Middlesboro people, witnessed the event.

It is impossible to tell at this time just what the results will be, though reports of those in charge of the work are favorable.

The 120 quarts of explosive fluid were brought from Winchester by automobile, the cargo passing through Middlesboro yesterday morning.

ROSE HILL, Va., Sept. 13.—There were many people in town and much excitement was caused over the shooting of the oil well which occurred at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Tom Gibson of Oklahoma lit the fuse and his niece, Mrs. A. Elizabeth of Washington City, dropped the squib. People are overjoyed at the prospects.

MINING COSTS FOUND TO VARY

Expense to Operator Ranges From $1.20 to $2.20 Per Ton, Commission Averages

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The cost of a ton of bituminous coal to a mine operator ranges from $1.20 and $2.20 the coal commission reported to President Coolidge today submitting the latest industry in compliance with instructions from congress.

The cost study was based upon statistics from 266 mines located in four states and covered operations in 1918 which was selected because conditions through that year were considered approximately uniform.

Examining in detail the various factors which made for difference in coal delivered at the mine mouth the commission listed soundness of operations and certainty of coal supply as important.

"The advantage and economy of full time operation is clearly indicated," the report said. "As between two similar mines each having a cost of production of $2.50 per ton, the mine which enjoys the best working time under conditions of coal shortage and a strong market for coal will make the largest profits because of lower costs, or under conditions of poor market, one may undersell the other and realize a profit, because with more days worked the cost will be lower."

Taking again a base cost of $2.50 per ton for full time 25 days operation it is found that when working 20 days (five days per week) there was no difference; when working 16 days (4 days per week), the difference was negligible 2 1/2 cents a ton; when working 12 days (3 days a week) a difference was 10 cents per ton; and when working eight days (2 days a week) the difference was 15 cents a ton. There is thus no notable difference in unit cost of production caused by short time operation whether this broken time be due to lack of transportation or lack of market. The real difference enters deduction in the price cost which quite generally is reduced in times of inactive demand.

It may be inquired in view of this factor of cost of idle time what effect on the country's coal bill the fact may have had that in the past two years the soft coal mines have worked an average of but 22 days or 72 per cent on full time.

How Local Salvation Army
Head Saved Little Girl
From Life of Degradation

Box Capt. Steinham, local Salvation Army executive, was instrumental in rescuing from a life of misery and degradation a little girl is related in the following story from an Ohio newspaper:

"She was just a mere slip of a girl. Blue eyes, fair complexion, light hair, thin, slender and hung in abandon about the little wistful countenance, like an outcrop of sunlight."

"Just a little flower that had blossomed in the valley of despair and misery surrounded by sordid conditions of life."

"Her name was synonymous with her being—Lily."

"A little Lily of the Valley."

"There was not a chance for her, amid her surroundings. Her home was in our midst, but the word was a misnomer as applied, utterly lacking in comforts and in every necessities and constantly in a ferment because of the frequent quarrels between the parents. Unkept, unclean, a hotel of poverty. The mother was devoid of all material instincts, a victim of degradation and having dropped to the lowest level, to which she encouraged the oldest daughter just merging into womanhood to descend. The two little brothers, 8 and 10 years old, dirty and half clad, roamed at will unprotected by discipline."

"The father, reputed to be hard working, but selfish and absolutely lacking in strength of character to exercise any control over his family, barely provided sufficient food to meet their needs."

"Then came the day when the father harassed beyond endurance because of the flagrant misconduct of the mother, in towering rage drove her forth into the world and the children went with her."

"In their misery they begged food by day and sought shelter in barns at night."

"Then plight attracted notice and their case was brought to the attention of the city officials."

The letter follows:

"Mr. James L. Proser, vice chairman of the American National Red Cross, has advised me this morning that the Salvation Army is announcing a World Drive for Japanese relief funds."

"In case any questions are raised as to the relationship of this fund to funds raised by the American National Red Cross, attention may be invited to the President's proclamation designating the American National Red Cross as the recognized agency for the collection and distribution of relief funds for this country in Japan. This proclamation is quoted below:

To the People of the United States:

"An overwhelming disaster has overtaken the people of the friendly nation of Japan. While its extent has not yet been officially reported enough is known to justify the statement that the cities of Tokyo and Yokohama, and surrounding towns and villages, have been largely if not completely destroyed by earthquake, fire and flood, with resultant appalling loss of life and destitution and distress, requiring measures of urgent relief. Such assistance is within the means of the Executive Department of the Government will be rendered; but realizing the great suffering which now needs relief and will need relief for days to come, I am prompted to appeal urgently to the American people, whose sympathies have always been so comprehensive, to contribute in aiding the unfortunate and in the giving of relief to the people of Japan."

"In order that the utmost coordination and effectiveness in the administration of the relief funds be obtained, I recommend that contributions clearly designated, be sent to the Chairman of the American National Red Cross at Washington, or to any of the local Red Cross Chapters for transmission to Japan."

"CALVIN COOLIDGE."
"The action taken at the White House yesterday during the first meeting of the cabinet in four weeks, confirmed in every sense the wording of the wording of the President's proclamation."

Insurrection Joined in by Soldiers Aimed at Cabinet and Parliament, Not King—Revolt in Air Some Time

REPORT GOVERNMENT OVER-THROWN PLOTTED FOR MONTHS

By Associated Press.
MADRID, Sept. 12.—Army officers at Barcelona have revolted and martial law declared. The council if ministers held a meeting early today to consider the situation. The rank and file of the army have joined in the revolt, but the navy personnel is quiet. The revolt was not aimed at the King but against the Spanish cabinet and parliament for alleged treatment of the army.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A grave statement was made privately here by competent foreign observers who had arrived from Madrid, regarding the Spanish internal situation acquires unusual interest in view of the present revolt. It has been stated that there is a strong revolutionary spirit in Spain which was plotting the overthrow of the government months ago. Plans were said to have progressed so far that an outbreak was expected within the present year. It was also stated that King Alfonso was fully cognizant of the situation, and that he had no doubt that he would sooner or later be faced with a revolution. In this connection it was pointed out that Madrid messages indicate the present revolt was not against the throne but is definitely an anti-cabinet movement.

RARE BIBLE FOUND IN POS-SESSION LOUISVILLE WOMAN

By Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 12.—Contemporary with the reign of Akbar and the days of the Spanish Armada, a Bible printed in 1580 and handed down for generations in the family of Mrs. Raymond Daumott of Louisville, still is intact, although the proud, Spanish galleons long since have settled to the bottom of the sea and the Son of Heaven was gathered to his fathers 300 years ago.

Printed in Zurich only a little more than a century after Gutenberg discovered the art of printing, the Bible is almost undamaged except for the loss of the binding and a few of the leaves. It is printed in German, which, after three centuries is almost as unintelligible as an unknown tongue and is scattered through with painstaking hand drawn illuminations. One illustration, fantastic with symbols and elaborate with mountains and castled shores, depicts Ezekiel in the midst of a vision. The Lord God, who sits upon a throne swept about with fire and rain, upborne by four pillars resting on wheels, gazes down upon the bowed head of the prophet while the sun and "a strong wind" hide him from the sight of the multitude.

Solomon's temple is charted, showing the location of the shewbread and the ark of the covenant, and the title pages of the different books are covered with intricate designs.

Mrs. Daumott plans to send it to a museum for preservation and the study of booklovers.

A THOUGHT

They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters; these see the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep.—Ps. 107:23, 24.

Rather see the wonders of the world about them, than living dully shaggard at home, wear out thy youth with shapeless idleness.—Shakespeare.

REGISTRATION FOR VOTING ELIGIBILITY

The city council has set the dates, October 6, 10 and 12 for registration of voters for the fall elections. Three dates have been designated, at intervals of several days, so that it may be convenient for every voter in the city. Any voter who does not register on one of these days, however, will be ineligible to vote, either at the city primaries or in the important November election, when state, county and city officers are to be chosen.

The function of intelligent voting is perhaps the most important duty the citizen has; and the privilege of voting is certainly his most glorious one. That this privilege should be so utterly disregarded by so many American citizens is astounding, yet we do not have to go farther than our own city to find such a condition existing.

At the last registration time scarcely one-fourth of the eligible voters in Middlesboro registered, and only twelve per cent of the women of the city were included in this number. This condition results from indifference on the part of a majority of citizens. It is the special duty, however, of the citizens of Middlesboro who do realize the importance of their citizenship to arouse the others to this duty.

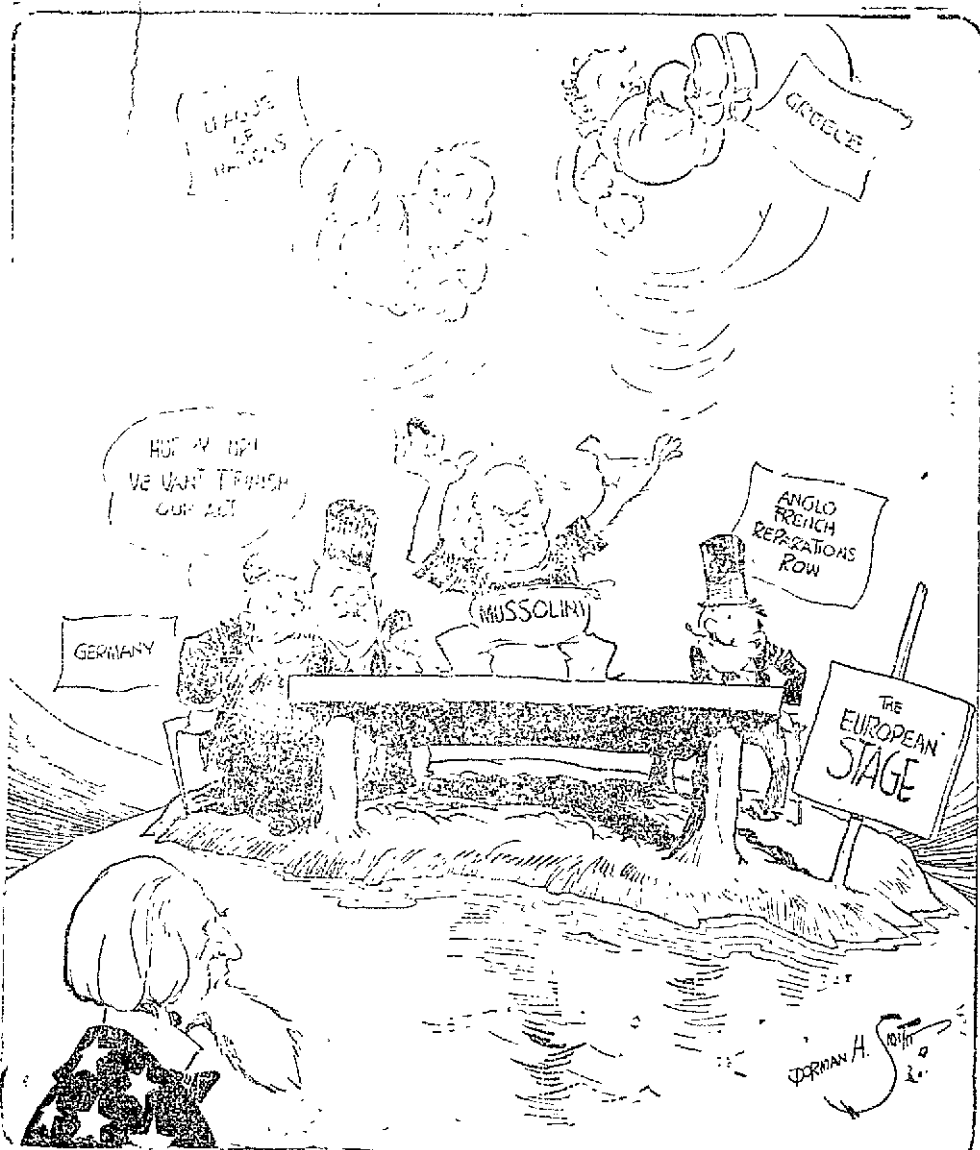

November sixth we are called upon to elect a new governor, new state officers, and representatives and senators to our state legislative body. This is in addition to city officers. It is now in the hands of the voters of the state to dictate what they want, to endorse or condemn the present administration, to go on record for better schools, better roads, or any such improvement that they desire. So, too, in the city, by voting for commissioners who the voters know are disinterested in politics and have the welfare of the city at heart, the people can choose officers who will insure the city's prosperity for years.

Yet how few think seriously on this matter and are content to criticize our city and state administration without making the trouble to vote, least of all to use their influence in seeing that needed reforms are effected. Let us consider the matter as worthy citizens should.

MOUNTAINS STILL IN THE LIMELIGHT

The following news item appeared in the 11th of August issue of the San Francisco Chronicle: "Seven Captured in Moonshine Battle" "HAZARD, Ky., Sept. 13.—Fifteen deputies from the force of Sheriff T. Holiday who were rushed to the interior Friday following reports that a battle was raging in the mountains between moonshiners and prohibition enforcement officers, reached here today with seven pioneers and the report that they had destroyed ten moonshine stills. They were maddened, they said, to locate the government agents, said to be surrounded on all sides by a band of moonshiners."

There is enough truth in the above statement to make it legitimate press association material, and there is enough of misleading insinuation to keep the propaganda on Kentucky's bloodthirstiness going. There are moonshiners in Perry county, and deputy sheriffs and marshals have been killed; but there are other things in Bad Section that never get posted in the national press.

The writer has just returned from a trip to Jackson, Bragg county. There he found the five, and one of the most efficient county supervisors of the state. He has come in contact with a man who has been in the county anywhere in the country. The conditions of the county are such that the spirit of good roads and of law enforcement prevailing that can not be excelled in any county in the United States. Perry county, the home of the moonshiners and revenue men, recently passed a road bond issue for $100,000, and hundreds of other progressive and forward looking accomplishments are taking place annually.

It is indeed a sad commentary upon the spirit of American life when it takes a wild west show or a blood curdling moonshine raid to attract the attention of the leading public. We will not the average progressive citizen a quiet, peaceful, thoughtful constructive and building piece of community work? Because it is not so sensational enough. The moonshiners about people and sections have been built up through fiction and other agencies and the average citizen does not desire other information. For example, the motion picture industry has manufactured a conventional moonshine raid and nine tenths of all the portrayals by the motion picture are perverted and untrue to life. One motion picture producer when challenged on this subject said that he desired to give a different characterization to the average moonshiner than he showed him the "movie-attending" public will not have any other kind than the perverted conception.

Let us start a program of education to train the average American citizen to accept no representation of police, things, places or persons that are not true to life and for in statement. Moonshine raids are frequent in the mountains, but in these latter days they are not the main thing, but are merely side issues in the great forward march of eastern Kentucky. Do not let them.

LETTER FROM BEATRICE GRIM-SAW TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

I wonder if you have seen the last of Dick? It had a very interesting story in it about that young woman called Paula Peter, of whom I had you in my last letter. She seems to have made quite a hit in Hollywood.

Dick writes me that the girl has been a spiritualist and indeed, he says, she has been taken with her talent. It is a queer kind of life that Dick has been led into on this, Les. From what he writes me I can see that everyone is living up to his part of the picture. I can see that Dick's letters do not seem like Dick at all, my Dick, whom I have always thought was the very essence of enthusiasm and contentment. I can see he is getting all fixed up in his ideas. His thoughts and conclusions are as jerky as his sentence in his letters.

Beatrice, Leslie dear, I am very sorry that I either of I don't go with Dick to Los Angeles, as he calls it, or else persuade him to stay here. You see, he isn't he would do just as I wanted him to in the matter. He let it to me, Leslie, but I, knowing that he wanted to go very badly, of course said "go."

Why is it, Leslie, that a loving woman, if she is called upon to decide a question for her men, always waits until she knows what he wants to do and then tells him that is the thing for him? I thought at the time that my own objection to the whole scheme was the long, hardy three months I would have to spend before I could join Dick. I know now that in the back of my head was always a feeling that when the time came for me to join him, it would be like joining a stranger.

He has gone into different worlds.

It is a queer kind of life that Dick has been led into on this, Les. From what he writes me I can see that everyone is living up to his part of the picture. I can see that Dick's letters do not seem like Dick at all, my Dick, whom I have always thought was the very essence of enthusiasm and contentment. I can see he is getting all fixed up in his ideas. His thoughts and conclusions are as jerky as his sentence in his letters.

Beatrice, Leslie dear, I am very sorry that I either of I don't go with Dick to Los Angeles, as he calls it, or else persuade him to stay here. You see, he isn't he would do just as I wanted him to in the matter. He let it to me, Leslie, but I, knowing that he wanted to go very badly, of course said "go."

Why is it, Leslie, that a loving woman, if she is called upon to decide a question for her men, always waits until she knows what he wants to do and then tells him that is the thing for him? I thought at the time that my own objection to the whole scheme was the long, hardy three months I would have to spend before I could join Dick. I know now that in the back of my head was always a feeling that when the time came for me to join him, it would be like joining a stranger.

He has gone into different worlds.

TOMORROW—A Lie to Beatrice

A woman to love.

The minister and his wife were on their first postcard call of the season. The home happened to be that of a red head woman who was seldom seen at church.

The minister's wife, dedicated of creating a good impression, spread a conversation by a line: "You got your children up to Sunday school in time, don't you?"

"Lord, yes, woman," was the reply. "I've got thirteen children, and by the time I've got the last 'um ready, the first one's comin' home again."—Julius.

When we learn how tickled to beat the hand is we will tell you how tickled the Turks are.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton
NO. 12—WHY THE PLAINS FOLK MOVED

Nick took the glasses and looked in the direction Mr. Gallop was pointing.

Mister Gallop, the cowboy fairy, stood near his cave up in the mountains and looked over the plain below. He could see everything very clearly because he had his spy glasses.

Suddenly he turned to the Twins. "Take these glasses and look as hard as you can," he said, "and see if you notice anything. If you do, tell me quickly, for there's no time to be lost."

Nick took the glasses and looked in the direction Mister Gallop was pointing. "Why, yes, I see something!" he said. "I see Ben Beaver and his brothers stacking some sticks across the creek."

And then Nancy took a peek thru the glasses, too. "And they're packing mud around the sticks," she declared. "And the water's being stopped. It's spreading all over everything."

"It will never do! Never!" exclaimed the fairyman. "I'll have to put a stop to it at once for the first thing you know the creek will flood the whole country round about and fill up all the houses of the plains folk. Penny Prairie Dog and Johnnie Jack Rabbit and Prairie Burrow Owl and Pridley Porcupine and everybody, again."

Berton Braley's Poem

SEA-FEVER

It's well known that I've often planned To star out for some foreign strand Across the waters smooth and blue. Yes, traveling's the thing to do, I think an ocean trip is grand.

For when the sea is calm and bland And on the steamer's deck the band Is playing melodies to you, It's swell!

However, on the other hand, When she begins to roll, I land Down in my berth. My face in hue Is sickly green. I'm done, I'm through!

The ocean's fine—but I can't stand It's swell!

A small boy was taken by his father to Washington and taken to visit Congress, says the Chicago Tribune. He was much interested in the chaplain, who always opened the sessions with prayer. Both in the senate and the house he had observed this practice.

Finally he asked: "Tajal, why does the minister come in every day and pray for congress?"

"You've got it all wrong, son," replied the father. "The minister comes in every day, looks over congress, and then prays for the country."

"Dinnis," said Mike, can you tell me why they always have a rooster and never a hen on top of them barns for a weather vane?" "Sure!" said the other. "Tis t' avoid the difficulty of collectin' the eggs." Everybody's.

New rule permits Turks to have gold to their. It will make them grin.

The Stream of Life
O stream descending to the sea,
Thy mossy banks between,
The flowers bow, the grasses grow,
The leafy trees are green.

In garden plots the children play,
The fields the laborers till,
And horses stand on either hand,
And thou descendest still.

O life, descending into death,
Our waking eyes behold,
Parent and friends thy bay are attend,
Companions young and old.

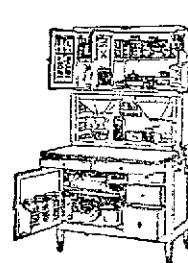

Strong purposes our minds possess,
Our hearts affections bill,
We toil and earn, we seek and learn,
And thou descendest still.

O end to which our currents tend,
Inevitable sea,
To which we flow, what do we know,
What shall we guess of thee?
A roar we hear upon thy shore,
As we our course fulfill:
Scarce we divine a sun will shine
And be above us still.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

Cooked Fresh Sweet Corn

Of course, corn is delicious "unadorned," right on the cob but there are innumerable other ways to serve fresh sweet corn and are quite as delicious. Corn puddings or souffles, creamed corn and stewed corn, fried corn and baked corn combined with other vegetables, all these ways aid in providing variety to late summer menus. The woman in the country will welcome any suggestion that may be different in the way of serving vegetables.

Country Creamed Corn

Cut the tops of the kernels and scrape out the hearts. Put in a saucepan with 1 tablespoon butter for each cup of corn, 1-4 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Add just enough milk to make moist and cook over a slow fire, stirring constantly until very hot. Add cream to butter cover and continue cooking for eight minutes, stirring constantly. Serve at once. This is a dish "fit for a king" and to any mind much nicer to serve to guests than corn on the cob.

If corn is not fresh from the garden a little sugar should be added to replace the natural sweetness. Corn very quickly loses its sweetness after picking.

Fried Corn With Peppers

Six ears corn, 2 green peppers, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup milk.

Cut corn from cob. Scald pepper and rub off thin outer skin. Remove seeds and white ribs. Cut in shreds. Melt butter, add corn and peppers, season with salt and pepper and cover with milk. Cook slowly until milk is absorbed. Brown slightly and serve very hot.

Corn Souffle

Six ears corn, 1-2 cup soft bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 yolks of eggs, 3 whites of eggs.

Melt butter, stir in bread crumbs and milk and cook, stirring constantly until smooth. Add corn and cook three minutes longer. Season with salt and pepper. Beat yolks of eggs till thick and lemon colored. Add to corn mixture. Beat whites of eggs with a wire whisk until stiff and dry. Fold into first mixture. Turn into a well-but-

Fresh Corn Chowder
Six ears corn, 2 tablespoons diced salt pork, 1 small onion, 2 cups diced potatoes, 1 cup peeled and chopped tomatoes, 2 green peppers, 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 6 large crackers.

Trim out pork and add onion cut in thin slices. Cook five minutes without letting the fat brown. Strain into kettle, discarding the onion and bits of crisp fat. Add potatoes and corn cut from cob. Scald peppers and rub off outer skin. Remove seeds and white ribs and cut in thin dice. Add to first mixture with tomatoes. Bring slowly to the boiling point adding boiling water to barely cover vegetables. Cook 25 minutes. Season with salt and add milk. Do not let boil after adding milk. Soak crackers in cold milk for five minutes. Put in soup tureen, pour chowder over and serve at once.

Net is Worn in Paris

Copyright by M. C. Ellis

The newest gowns of the most important dressmakers in Paris are indicating a revival of net, especially with lace.

Black net, combined with black lace was used by one couturiere for a model that had an immediate vogue. Another designer used black net for several dinner gowns. Still other designers are using nets of various colors in many different styles.

Other favored materials are chiffon, lace combined with georgette, chiffon or crepe de chine; and metal cloth combined with georgette. The use of these sheer and delicate fabrics gives the evening mode a charm and allure that it has missed in the styles of several seasons back.

CONVENTION IS IN FOREFRONT TODAY

Tentative Program Read and Suggestions Made—Observe Constitution Week Next Week

Discussion of the district convention to be held in Middlesboro the last of the month took up most of the time at the Kiwanis club luncheon. President A. P. Liebig read the tentative program of the convention and several of the members, C. A. Blackburn, secretary of the local club, in particular, gave several suggestions on the convention. Jack Innan was chairman of the program today and gave the guest prize, which went to Hugh Allen. J. W. Cunningham gave cigars as silent boosts.

Announcement was made of the express company's answer to the petition for extended delivery service. The company said that delivery service would be extended even further than requested when the street improvement program was completed. Discussion was also held on the proposed change in the time of the Harlan train from 5:50 to 5 a. m. causing travelers the inconvenience of laying over an hour and a half in Pineville. A committee will be appointed to investigate this matter.

The new public schools athletic director, John H. Kilpatrick, was present and made a short talk, speaking of the bright future he predicted for high school athletics, and emphasizing the strict training rules he intended to force among the athletes.

Announcement was made of Constitution week, to be observed by all Kiwanis Clubs in the country next week. Dr. R. O. Mathews, president of Lincoln Memorial university, is scheduled to speak at the club on the Constitution at next week's luncheon hour.

Davis, Secretary of Labor, in a letter to the Kiwanis Clubs in connection with their "Constitution Week" activity.

If the seven millions of aliens who have not yet become American citizens could get a clear understanding of the meaning of the Constitution we would not have the alien problem, he said.

"In true reverence for the fundamental principles of the Constitution of the United States," he continued "lies the real spirit of America. In these days of wild political theories and vague economic seekings after the millennium we cannot hold too closely to the great truths which the forefathers set forth when they founded here this great experiment in representative government. These truths are as solid and stable today as they were when the Constitutional Convention wrote them into that great document which has guided the destinies of the nation for the last 136 years. They were the governmental axioms, which human experience has proved through centuries, and they were adapted to the needs of the American people with the utmost care and judgment."

"Not many weeks ago, I stood at Runnymede in England, where the rebellious barons wrested from King John the first great charter of liberty, the Magna Charta. Some of these barons came from my old home in Wales. They carried to their people the message of the rights of the individual. All that was best in the Magna Charta, our forefathers studied and culled, and adapted it where it was fitted to our use in the Constitution. Thus all of history was scanned for the best that seasoned minds could find of governmental practices."

"Our patriotism in America may well be measured by our devotion to the Constitution. Under it we have built up a nation based upon the principle of fraternity, or consideration for our fellow citizen. In this we stand alone in a world where many governments have bred hate and envy and jealousy and war."

"Many of the difficulties and problems which confront America today would disappear if we all knew and understood the fundamental principles of the Constitution. We would be less liable to run after false political and economic gods, if we based our faith on the truths of the Constitution. The seed of the foe of all governments would fall on rocky ground if every American could reason from the basic truths of that great instrument."
